INSPIRED LEARNING: IQuest

IQuests allow our students to seek answers to questions by adding local, national, and international travel components to independent study topics. Awarded through a student driven grant proposal and funding process, girls initiate inquiry and ignite their intellectual interests through research, experimentation, and presentation of findings. Among many exhilarating projects, students have been granted IQuest funding to apply principles of organic chemistry to develop a line of cosmetics in our lab, to study and perform site specific dance in Paris, to interview developers in Oregon in order to provide recommendations regarding environmental sustainability and regional economic development. What will you do?

Chatham Hall fosters an academic culture of achievement where girls discover and explore their intellectual potential. It is a place where girls have the courage to question and the drive to know.

Chatham Hall is committed to cultivating curiosity, excellence, and innovative thinking in girls. Our student-centered approach is driven by highly qualified faculty who provide personal attention. Dynamic project-based learning is at the center of our educational experience. A supportive community of peers rounds out the inclusive environment. All of this comes together in an educational opportunity you won't find anywhere else.

The classroom is a stepping stone into the full sweep of learning experiences at Chatham Hall. It is not the beginning, nor the end. Our girls are encouraged to get their hands (literally) around a subject, to sharpen their powers of observation, to step forward with questions, and to communicate clearly what they see and believe.

OUT IN THE WORLD FINDING ANSWERS...

ASTRONOMY IN CAMBRIDGE, MA

Mary-Michael was studying the work of physicist/astronomer Cecilia Payne-Gaposchkin. She and her physics teacher traveled to the Harvard-Smithsonian Center for Astrophysics, in Cambridge, MA, where Mary-Michael spoke with Professor Avi Loeb regarding Payne-Gaposchkin's work. An amazing opportunity for a young scientist to learn how curiosity and passion can lead to a life of discovery.

NASHVILLE MUSIC IMMERSION

Walker, a Chatham Hall singer-songwriter, was curious about her future in the music industry. Through her iQuest grant, Walker visited Nashville to learn about the local music scene and to meet with musician Marshall Campbell to discuss Walker's talent and how she could move forward with her music. A demo disk of original music is the product of this iQuest.

A SPAIN PILGRIMAGE

Sasha had questions and decided to seek the answers. After researching pilgrimages and spirituality, Sasha and a teacher made a pilgrimage to the Camino de Santiago in Spain over spring break. Together, they hiked with other pilgrims. A monk they met along the way gave Sasha perspective regarding her spirituality and the role that religion plays in her life.

Bringing the world to Chatham Hall girls—because becoming a strong female role model begins with knowing a strong female role model.

The Polly Wheeler Guth ’44 Leaders in Residence program provides an exceptional opportunity to learn from women who shape the world—culturally, socially, artistically, and politically. Hearing their stories, their ideas, and their voices provides a remarkable window through which our girls can begin to envision their own future.

These women don’t simply stand behind a podium and deliver prepared remarks when they visit our boarding school in Virginia. Their time with us is much more intimate than that. They meet and converse with students in class, in small-group discussions, over meals, as well as in the lecture hall. Our students prepare by working together in intensive study groups and presenting informative presentations to the entire school community prior to the visits.

GLOBAL STUDIES PROGRAMS

Bringing Chatham Hall girls to the world—because looking outward is as important as looking inward when it comes to the development of character and integrity.

LIFE-CHANGING EXPERIENCES AWAIT...

GLOBAL CITIZENSHIP TRAVEL TO INDIA & SOUTH AFRICA

In alternating years Chatham Hall offers signature exploration experiences in India and South Africa. True to the goal of empowering girls to better the world, we first introduce them to it. Students study the landscape (social, political, economic, environmental) on site and through relationships with local people. Through engagement with individuals, ideas, and place, we cultivate our students as global citizens.

SPANISH & FRENCH IMMERSION

Chatham Hall's study abroad programs are total immersion experiences that provide students with the opportunity to learn a language and culture from the inside out. Students in either the Spanish or French programs are able to become immersed in the language and culture of their country of study through a combination of experiences that include living with a host family, attending a language school, and traveling within the country with the Chatham Hall group.

FOREIGN TRAVEL AWARDS

The Hallam Hurt '63 Student and Faculty Foreign Travel Award helps Chatham Hall students pursue a question they've been yearning to answer. Past award recipients made the following journeys: A student with a love for both physics AND music found herself traveling to Italy to study the acoustics in opera houses. Another student rode horseback alongside gauchos in Argentina learning about the organic, grass-fed beef industry. And yet another award winner visited Jerusalem to study the confluence of three major world religions.

SUMMER IMMERSION EXPERIENCES

All Chatham Hall sophomores and juniors are eligible to apply to participate in one of these 3-5 week international experiential education programs in partnership with Student Diplomacy Corps. These cross-cultural programs are enhanced through the exploration of universal issues like biodiversity, sustainability, anthropology, food and nutrition, art and music and volunteer service.

Ask a Chatham Hall girl what school is like and she will reply, “Home.” That’s because life at Chatham is all about inclusion.

Life on campus is the perfect complement to our academic vision—at Chatham Hall we empower girls to better the world. Our thoughtfully designed residential life program helps girls cultivate a sense of self and place in the world while forging lifelong friendships, making connections with girls from around the globe, and having once in a lifetime experiences.

HONOR: STRENGTH OF CHARACTER

THE HONOR CODE

The Chatham Hall community and all of its traditions are built upon the foundation of the Honor Code. Students, teachers, administrators, and staff use these principles to create a value system based on shared trust. It states:
I will not lie.
I will not cheat.
I will not steal.
I will report all infractions of Honor.

WHITE FLAG

"White Flag" at Chatham Hall means if it's not yours, it's off limits. It is a simple yet profound approach to developing a community of trust.

PURPLE & GOLDEN RULE

The Purple and Golden Rule is founded upon the expectation of mutual respect, consideration, and thoughtfulness. The rule holds all members of the Chatham Hall community accountable for their actions and seeks to create a principled and caring sisterhood where those who follow are supported and those who do not are counseled.

SPIRITUALITY: GROUNDING & INSPIRATIONAL

SPIRITUALITY

Chatham Hall encourages spiritual reflection in all aspects of life on campus. Rather than emphasizing religious differences, we focus on what we have in common—our human spirituality—and encourage girls to participate in ways that are most meaningful to them.

UNITY

Our spiritual focus is on what unites us, rather than what divides us. We recognize that adolescence is a time of critical thinking where doubt and questioning are natural parts of a developing spirituality. This inquiry is encouraged rather than feared and suppressed.

EPISCOPAL INFLUENCE

In the Episcopal tradition we aspire to openness, rigor and excellence in our entire curriculum, not shying away from including the religious influences in history, art, philosophy and music. We study religions and the Bible historically and critically, but with respect. One semester of Biblical Studies or World Religions is required for graduation.

SERVICE: STEPPING UP & GIVING BACK

STRENGTH OF SERVICE

Social activism is a way of recognizing and responding to needs of social justice, as well as a way of acting on our concerns for others. We believe that service work is a critical way to build cultural competency. We must prepare our students to be global citizens, good stewards, and culturally literate. Not only does service afford girls opportunities to discover their passions, but service is the means by which they are able to put their concern for others into action.

TRADITIONS FOR EVERYDAY

SENIOR STAIRS
A tradition is held that only seniors may use the main staircase in the Well of Pruden Hall (the central gathering space in the main building). The bottom step of the Senior Stairs is ceremoniously passed down to members of the junior class each year.

OLD GIRLS & NEW GIRLS
Each spring a returning "Old Girl" will volunteer to welcome an incoming "New Girl". She will contact the New Girl over the summer to answer her questions and will greet her in the fall with a welcome sign. The Old Girl will be a "big sister" to the New Girl throughout their time together at Chatham Hall.

ASSEMBLY IN THE WELL
Once a week assembly is held in the Well of Pruden Hall. These gatherings are for announcements and celebratory moments (like birthdays!). During assembly, the senior class sits on "their" staircase with juniors occupying the bottom step. The rest of our community fills the spirited space.

FLAG DUTY
9th graders are responsible for seeing that the American flag is raised in the morning and lowered before sundown. Specific girls are assigned to this duty each week.

CHAPEL
All-school required Chapel services are held Tuesday and Friday mornings, with Eucharist offered on Sunday evenings. Every Chapel service takes advantage of the aesthetic serenity for quiet meditation, the amazing acoustics, and a communal space that invites reflection.

CHAPEL TALKS
Each Chatham Hall senior offers a Senior Chapel Talk to the community, incorporating special words, music and prayers that express her individuality and her experience at Chatham Hall. It's a challenge to leave one of these moving services without having shed a tear.

SEATED MEALS
Seated Meals occur several times each week and are more formal than regular meals. Students and faculty sit at assigned tables and enjoy a meal together preceded by the singing of Grace.

COOKIE BREAK
Cookie Break is a long-standing tradition where every Wednesday morning while passing between classes, the girls pause to gather in the Arcade where they enjoy freshly baked cookies.

tradition

Traditions provide a common experience for every girl who attends Chatham Hall and a shared connection among every graduate. This interconnection is the foundation upon which Chatham Hall's rich history has been built.

ANNUAL TRADITIONS

PICNIC HONORING NEW GIRLS
One of Chatham Hall's most beloved traditions is the picnic honoring the New Girls. The entire community gathers in the meadow for a celebratory evening of fun. The excitement peaks as the New Girls and faculty are sorted and welcomed onto their team—either Purple or Gold.

PURPLE-GOLD BANQUET
At the end of the school year a formal banquet is held for the School community to celebrate individuals' many levels of accomplishment and participation in athletics. The Chatham Hall Athletic Champion Bowl is given to the team that has won more Purple-Gold competitions throughout the year.

DECORATION DAY & SENIOR NIGHT IN THE WELL
In preparation for Christmas, on a Saturday in December the underclassmen assume responsibility for decorating the school. The freshmen class makes wreaths for each building, the sophomores decorate the interior of the chapel, and the junior class creates a theme for Yardley (the dining hall) and decorates accordingly. Seniors spend Decoration Day preparing a special program for the evening and decorating The Well. This joyous night ends with the senior class performing a play they created and the school wide singing of carols.

JUNIOR RING HUNT
The annual ring hunt involves juniors embarking upon a treasure hunt using clues left by the seniors (who are enjoying their Senior banquet). The hunt leads them to the name of the senior who will give them their lantern and their Chatham Hall ring.

CLASS SONG CONTEST
Each year, just before the Lantern Ceremony, there is a song contest on the front steps of Pruden Hall. The symbolism of these songs represents the bonds within the Chatham Hall community.

THE LANTERN CEREMONY
The lantern ceremony is held by the junior and senior classes the night before graduation when the junior class members officially receive their class rings and assume leadership of the school from seniors.

expect the challenge

Whether you are an established athlete or a novice, Chatham Hall will provide the challenge you need.

Athletics and the benefits of physical fitness are important aspects of the Chatham Hall experience. Our athletics program supports our goal of helping girls become their best selves by teaching them to enjoy the mental, emotional, and physical benefits of teamwork, perseverance, and self-sacrifice in the athletic realm. Our riding program is nationally recognized and balances an inclusive approach with a focus on all aspects of horsemanship with a competitive spirit.

OUR NATIONALLY RECOGNIZED RIDING PROGRAM

THE PROGRAM

The Chatham Hall Riding Program is a dynamic and unique experience among equestrian boarding schools. Our riding program offers the American Forward System of Riding fundamentals. Students learn the theory behind the instruction and how to handle a variety of horses. Taking a holistic approach to lessons, students benefit from mounted and unmounted instruction, a fitness plan, best dietary habits, and sports psychology.

COMPETITIVE RIDING

The Interscholastic Equestrian Team (IEA) is an integral part of Chatham Hall Riding. This team travels and competes at local and national venues, providing an opportunity for our equestrian athletes to showcase their skill and prepare for collegiate showing. Equestrian athletes also have the opportunity to show in USEF rated association shows within Virginia and North Carolina.

FACILITIES

Riding facilities include the Mars Riding Arena and Hunter Trial Field. The campus is also home to more than 40 horses, two additional outdoor teaching arenas, and plenty of trails throughout the rolling hills.

ATHLETIC TEAMS AND OFFERINGS

A TEAM FOR EVERY GIRL

Students are required to participate in a team sport or scheduled physical activity every season. Ten varsity sports are offered throughout the year: basketball, cross-country, field hockey, golf, lacrosse, riding, soccer, swimming, tennis or volleyball. In addition to competitive sports, yoga, dance and high-level conditioning are also available.

SPORTSMANSHIP ALWAYS COMES FIRST

The goal of our athletic program is to teach, coach, and encourage each girl to compete to the best of her athletic ability. The focus is on developing a healthy appreciation for competition, inspiring confidence, and encouraging a love of sports, teamwork, and healthy living. We teach our students how to win and how to lose. We teach the importance of discipline and hard work. And we teach that staying active is the key to lifelong health and wellness.

STRONG BODY, STRONG MIND

Participation in athletics provides girls with an extra opportunity for leadership development. When girls play sports, they are also building their self-esteem, courage and self-efficacy. The benefits of athletic experiences in adolescence extend throughout a girl's life—athletes are known to take initiative, to raise their voices and to have the courage to take risks, to fall and to get back up.

Chatham Hall is a peaceful place (for girls to make some noise)—where spontaneous outbursts of fun and laughter provide a welcome break from busy schedules.

The academic day at Chatham Hall is both full and rigorous. Beyond academics, Chatham Hall girls are dedicated to extra-curricular passions that consume the remaining portions of their day. So while free time can be rare during a girl's day, it provides her with some of the most cherished experiences. It's these moments of silliness and laughter that create the bonds of friendship that last a lifetime.

DAYS THAT ARE BOTH FULL AND FULFILLING

7:00 AM
Breakfast in Yardley. A fresh smoothie sounds like a good way to start today.

8:30 AM
A Block. Need to finish up our group project in Spanish.

9:20 AM
Chapel. Today is my best friend's Chapel Talk. I am going to miss her so much when she graduates. :(

B Block. History is my favorite class because it's discussion-based and our discussions are intense. I get a lot out of it.

C Block. AP Physics exam is today. I studied hard and feel ready for it.

12:10 PM
Seated Lunch. I love it when we have seated meals because it feels like a family meal at home. Well...my other home that is!

12:50 PM
D Block. Biology lab today.

1:45 PM
E Block. Painting in the art studio will give me some nice quiet time this afternoon.

2:40 PM
F Block. Last class of the day! Today in English we are discussing the most recent reading assignment. I have a pretty strong opinion on something I read last night and can't wait to share it.

4:00 PM
Sports. Tennis match today against our biggest rival. I'm so pumped. Go Turtles!

6:00 PM
Dinner. Taco Tuesday! We have THE BEST food in our dining hall.

7:30 PM
Study Hall. The library is my favorite place to study. The way you can move the furniture around makes it perfect for group study sessions. And I love being able to write on the walls!

9:30 PM
Dorm. Back to my room for the night. I was worried about living away from home before I came here, but I actually love it. My roommate is awesome!

RANDOM FUN CREATES THE BEST MEMORIES

IMPROMPTU DANCE PARTIES
Chatham Hall girls have been known to spontaneously erupt into outbursts of dance. It's a sight to be seen!

LAWN GAMES
Spending time outdoors at Chatham Hall is easy because our campus is so gorgeous and inviting. Throw in some lawn games and s'mores and you have a whole lot of girls having a whole lot of fun.

FRONT PORCH NIGHTS
Live music, dancing, food trucks, lawn games. Fun doesn't get much better than that!

NEVER TOO OLD FOR A BOUNCY HOUSE
When a bouncy house suddenly appears on the front lawn of Pruden, you better believe there will be squeals of delight as the girls run to get their turn.

While we have many points of pride, few match being able to say that our recent graduates have been accepted at the best colleges and universities.

The College Counseling program at Chatham Hall builds on the academic, co-curricular, and spiritual experiences of each Chatham Hall girl, with a focus on options and fit. Our spiritual experience is grounded in two basic queries: "Who are you?" and "Whose are you?". We capitalize on this process of introspection in the college process as well. We begin conversations with younger students (freshmen and sophomores) about the "why" of college, as they then progress to asking what they expect from the college experience as it impacts who they are now and who they are becoming. This process of guided introspection helps girls make appropriate academic choices while building a variety of life skills through experiential opportunities during their time at school.

visit, apply & FINANCIAL AID

We are an east coast boarding school located in Chatham, Virginia—a small town that is big on charm and bigger on travel opportunity.

A self-described "true Southern town," Chatham boasts 1,300 residents. While it prides itself on the friendliness and good manners of its citizens, Chatham's location makes it really stand out. Within 1-2 hours, we can be in Lynchburg, Roanoke, Raleigh/Durham Research Triangle, Greensboro, Charlottesville. A drive of just over 4 hours puts us in Washington, D.C. This proximity translates into day and weekend trips to enjoy cultural, shopping and sports activities.

To apply:

We accept applications via our online application (chathamhall.myschoolapp.com), and the Standard Application Online through SSAT (www.ssat.org/sao).

Financial Aid:

At Chatham Hall, we recognize that when choosing an independent school, especially a boarding school, finances play an important role in your decision. No family should be deterred by financial reasons from making an application to Chatham Hall and those families who require financial assistance are encouraged to apply. Chatham Hall's financial aid awards are based on a family's financial need.

Nilsen Merit Scholarship:

If you are a girl who has what it takes to be a Nilsen Scholar, you are a girl with great expectations. You excel in academics. You have special talents. You are an achiever. It is important to find a school that is as dynamic as you are. Not simply a strong school, but an exceptional school such as Chatham Hall. To apply please visit the Chatham Hall Admission page.
